Welcome to the 1991-92 program year of the C. G. Jung Society, Seattle.

It is my privilege to serve as president, once again, with an outstanding Board of Directors and volunteers who work hard to bring you educational events of quality and interest in the world of Jungian psychology.

There are several significant organizational events toward which I would like to direct your attention. The first is our opening series of speakers for September, entitled The Swiss Connection. We are bringing three analysts from Zurich to Seattle. They are Dr. Ursula Wirtz, on September 9, Dr. C. T. Frey-Wehrin on September 13 and 14, and Dr. Mario Jacoby on September 27 and 28. It is a rare treat to have all three of these speakers in Seattle this fall for what promises to be an excellent presentation. We are offering a discount for the series if you pre-register and pay in advance.

Dr. Ursula Wirtz will outline the essence of the therapeutic relationship, the importance of such terms as transference, and the self-regulating mechanism of the psyche. She will discuss the historical foundation of what Dr. Sigmund Freud termed therapeutic abstinence and how this issue has been modified in analytical psychology, Gestalt work, and the so-called "active psychotherapy" of Ferenczi. She will consider the difference between male and female analytical styles and provide information about issues of therapeutic ethics such as manipulation and sexual boundary violations.

On this evening we have the opportunity to hear and speak with Dr. C. T. Frey-Wehrin, a well-known and respected analyst in Switzerland who was a student at the C. G. Jung Institute in Zurich while Dr. Carl Jung was still living. Dr. Frey-Wehrin's talk will center on the concept of shadow, personal and collective, including both the shadow of Dr. Jung and of Jungian psychology. Dr. Frey-Wehrin will share vignettes and observations about Zurich in those early days.

About the Speaker: Dr. Ursula Wirtz holds a Ph.D. in philosophy, literature, and linguistics from the University of Munich and obtained her degree in clinical psychology from the University of Zurich. She is a Jungian analyst in Zurich and a member of the faculty of the C. G. Jung Institute, where she was trained. Dr. Wirtz is the author of Soulmurder: Incest and Therapy, which was published in German in 1989, and she has also written articles on paternal deprivation, gender and cultural identity, and sexual abuse within psychotherapy.

About the Speaker: Dr. C. T. Frey-Wehrin has been in private practice as a Jungian analyst in Zurich for over 30 years. He was the co-founder, and, for over 27 years, the director of psychotherapy and administrator at the Zurichberg Clinic. This clinic is a state-approved psychiatric institution that treats patients suffering from schizophrenia, bipolar disorder, severe neurosis, and addictions. Psychotherapy is conducted by a staff of analytically trained physicians, analytical psychologists, art therapists, and nurses. There is a weekly general discussion group, and groups for Gestalt, psychodrama, exercise, and music.

Workshop by C. T. Frey-Wehrin, Ph.D.

The Psychotherapy of Psychosis from a Jungian Perspective

Saturday, September 14,
10 A. M. - 4:30 P. M.

Cornish North, 1501 Tenth Ave. E.
$40 members; $50 non-members

On Saturday, Dr. C. T. Frey-Wehrin will summarize his 30 years of experience in Jungian psychotherapy in a clinical setting. The Zurichberg Clinic, which he co-founded, is one of a few clinics in the world designed to provide psychotherapy for chronic psychotics based on Dr. Jung's theories. During the workshop he will present case material, including an impressive and extensive series of slides of pictures painted by a patient. This material will be related to Dr. Jung's ideas as expressed in "The Psychogenesis of Mental Illness" (Collected Works, vol. 3). The interplay of psychiatry, psychology, and Jungian analysis will be considered in its theoretical, clinical, and institutional aspects.

Lecture by Mario Jacoby, Ph.D.

The Fig Leaves of Adam and Eve: The Meaning of Shame

Friday, September 27, 7:30 P. M.
The Mountaineers Club,
300 Third Ave. W.

(in Queen Anne near West Thomas)
$5 members; $8 non-members

Dr. Mario Jacoby will consider the range of unpleasant emotions we call shame, which belong archetypically to our species and have deep meaning. He will suggest that it can be helpful to reflect psychologically on the impact of shame, as depicted in the Biblical paradise myth, in order to grasp some of its meaning.

Workshop by Mario Jacoby, Ph.D.

Practical Issues Concerning the Shame Complex

Saturday, September 28,
10 A. M. - 4:30 P. M.

The Mountaineers Club,
300 Third Ave. W.

(in Queen Anne near West Thomas)
$40 members; $50 non-members

This workshop will consider the problems associated with shame in greater depth. Shame can have a crippling effect on our spontaneity and can imprison liveliness and expressions of both the body and soul. These are the conditions the psychotherapist often meets with. Dr. Mario Jacoby will address such questions as the following: What difference is there between feeling shame and feeling guilt? To what extent is the shame that is caused by exposing the "private" parts of one's body and/or the privacy of one's thoughts and feelings archetypically based or how much is determined by social restrictions? What is the role of shame in building up a persona? How, when, and why does shame become a sign of psychological disturbance?

About the Speaker: Dr. Mario Jacoby is a training analyst, lecturer, and member of the Curatorium (board of directors) of the C. G. Jung Institute in Zurich. He was a concert violinist for ten years before becoming an analyst. Dr. Jacoby has lectured throughout Europe, the United States, Australia, New Zealand, Brazil, and Israel, and he has written Longing for Paradise, The Analytic Encounter, Individuation and Narcissism, and, together with Dr. Verena Kast and Dr. I. Riedel, Evil in Fairytales. (These publications are available from our bookseller.)

Fall Schedule

Lecture by David Hufford, M.A.

The Archetype of War: A Jungian Examination of Global Conflict

Monday, October 14, 7:30 P. M.
Cornish North, 1501 Tenth Ave. E.
$5 members; $8 non-members

Cry "Havoc," and Let Loose the Dogs of War.
—Shakespeare

This talk will examine the concept of war, exploring its archetypal and mythological roots. Jungian clinical experience will help us to understand the psychological processes that lead to the apparently overwhelming urge to wage war. In light of this understanding, possibilities for preventing war will be discussed. Some questions will include: Is there an archetype of war? Given the ubiquitous nature of war, are we doomed to repeat the past, with the danger of marching blindly toward self-destruction? Are there ways to contain and transform the collective urge to wage war into creative rather than destructive energy?

About the Speaker: David Hufford, M.A., is a Jungian-oriented psychotherapist with a private practice in Seattle. He has a background in psychology, philosophy, and the visual arts. The focus of his practice includes the related issues of loss and renewal, life transitions, creativity, and spirituality.

Twelfth Night Festivities

Lecture/Demonstration by Arne Zaslove

The Mask as a Gateway to the Self

Friday, October 18, 7:30 P. M.
Cornish North, 1501 Tenth Ave. E.
$5 members; $8 non-members

Masks are commonly believed to hide the true face of the individual. It is Arne Zaslove's contention that the face and body reveal rather than conceal the soul and that through the use of masks we can heal the inner self. His lecture/demonstration will be informative and entertaining. He will explore the natural harmony of movement in the animal, the athlete, and the actor, in contrast with the distortions that develop in our physicality as we leave childhood and adopt the "grotesque mask" of the civilized adult. Masks are the province of the shaman, and the lecture will touch on shamanic figures in popular culture, from Italian commedia dell'arte street performers to Batman and stand-up comedians.

Workshop by Arne Zaslove

The Mask as a Gateway to the Self

Saturday, October 19,
10 A. M. - 4:30 P. M.
Cornish North, 1501 Tenth Ave. E.
$40 members; $50 non-members

The goal of mask training for actors is to shed their personal "character armor," to rediscover the true self, and to achieve a sense of inner calm, responsiveness, and creative freedom. The similarity between these goals and the goals of psychotherapy will be explored. Participants will do simple physical exercises for alignment, improvisational games for concentration and imagination, and work with neutral and expressive masks using Arne Zaslove's extensive collection of primitive and theater masks. The neutral mask is a profound tool not only for diagnosing character blocks, but for achieving a childlike state of innocence, abandon, and freedom. The potential for its use in psychotherapy will be examined, as will the parallels between Lecture by Robert Greenway, Ph.D.

The Human-Nature Relationship: A Jungian Perspective

Monday, October 28, 7:30 P. M.
Cornish North, 1501 Tenth Ave. E.
$5 members; $8 non-members

The complex interrelationship of humans and nature is in a state of severe crisis today. Dr. Robert Greenway will discuss how bringing together psychology and ecology offers a unique way of understanding this relationship. Ideas emerging from the three Jungian concepts of synchronicity, archetype, and transformation can help to more clearly articulate and shape the theory of "deep ecology," leading to a better understanding of human nature and our apparent addiction to habitat-destroying activities.

About the Speaker: Dr. Robert Greenway lives with his family in Port Townsend while also working as an associate professor at Sonoma State University in Northern California. He teaches and writes on Jungian and archetypal psychology, wilderness psychology, and a new field he terms "psycho-ecology." He is exploring the relationship of "the wild" in us and the world to culture and creative expression.

the work of the therapist and the stage director.

About the Speaker: Arne Zaslove is the artistic director of the Bathhouse Theatre on Green Lake. He has taught at the University of British Columbia and the University of Washington, and has directed and performed in this area for over 20 years. He has served as artistic director of Canada's National Theatre School and of the Seattle Repertory Theatre Second Stage. As a Fulbright scholar, he studied in Paris with Jacques Lecoq, the leading proponent of the neutral mask, and apprenticed in commedia dell'arte with Carlo Mazzone-Clementi.

Lecture and workshop by Terrill L. Gibson, Ph.D.

Cinema and Spirituality: A Jungian Perspective on Contemporary Film

The Mountaineers Club,
300 Third Ave. W.
(in Queen Anne near West Thomas)
Lecture on Friday
October 25, 7:30 P. M.
$5 members; $8 non-members
Workshop on Saturday, October 26,
10 A. M. - 4:30 P. M.
$40 members; $50 non-members

Although these two events may be attended independently of each other, they are being offered as two parts of a complete presentation that begins on Friday evening and continues through the day on Saturday. Separate fees will be charged for each day.

The premier art form of our era is film. One of the premier psycho-spiritual models of our century is Jungian. Film and Jungian psychology are two of the most important places where our culture "does" theology. This course attempts an integration of these two fields and the passionate and provocative image of the human soul emerging in their midst. There will be continual viewing of video film clips through a Jungian, archetypal scheme around such themes as God, Myth, War and Peace, Initiation, Woman, Man, Creation, Justice, Soul, Individuation, Innocence, Birth, and Death.

About the Speaker: Dr. Terrill L. Gibson is a pastoral psychotherapist and Jungian analyst who practices with Pastoral Therapist Associates in Tacoma. He lectures and writes widely on the basic theme of the integration of psychotherapy and spirituality. He has been a frequent consultant, faculty, supervisor, and facilitator for a variety of Pacific Northwest universities, social service agencies, corporations, and churches. He and his wife live on the foothill flanks of Mount Rainier. He has a passion for film, sea kayaks, and Lionel trains.

Lecture by W. Ladson Hinton, M.D.

The Fool, Humor, and the Vitality of the Self

Monday, November 11, 7:30 P. M.
Cornish North, 1501 Tenth Ave. E.
$5 members; $8 non-members

In this talk, Dr. W. Ladson Hinton will present his ideas about the archetype of the fool and the "foolish" attitude that connects one with liminality and transcendence. Humor is an everyday experience that ties one to the transcendent thread of meaning. Vital living, which requires access to the energies of the self, is highly related to humor and the fool archetype.

Lecture by W. Ladson Hinton, M.D.

Tales and Stories: Their Meaning and Interpretation

Monday, November 18, 7:30 P. M.
Cornish North, 1501 Tenth Ave. E.
$5 members; $8 non-members

Why do we as Jungians show such interest in fairy tales? Can we learn to see ourselves and our situations through the eyes of the Bluebeard? Do we ever feel as if we have been put to sleep by something unknown? And, more to the point, how can we be awakened? The meaning of myth and story and how they "work" for us to provide meaning to our lives will be the topic of this talk. Dr. W. Ladson Hinton will present examples and analyses of tales to illustrate his basic ideas.

About the Speaker: Dr. W. Ladson Hinton is a graduate and faculty member of the C. G. Jung Institute of San Francisco and an associate clinical professor of psychiatry at Stanford. He has lectured and published on fairy tales, the archetype of the fool, and analytic approaches to mid-life. Dr. Hinton has relocated to Seattle for the practice of analysis and for supervision.

Lecture by Polly Young-Eisendrath,
Ph.D., A.C.S.W.

Dream Lovers: Men and Women in Troubled Relationships

Friday, November 22, 7:30 P. M.
The Mountaineers Club,
300 Third Ave. W.
(in Queen Anne near West Thomas)
$7 members; $10 non-members

No models or paradigms exist in any major cultural tradition for equal and intimate relationship between the sexes. Although we may see traces of a "partnership model" in the remains of goddess worship, we are mostly on our own. As a couple therapist and feminist theorist of relationship, I am stunned by the sheer unknowingness of relating intimately and openly with a partner of the opposite sex. The strangeness of intimate partnership with an "opposite" of equal worth and value is shockingly new for both sexes. Unconsciously, unintentionally, most of us will tend to look up to or down on the opposite sex. Moreover, we tend to believe that relating to the opposite sex should come naturally and work smoothly. Instead, such intimate relationships may be "unnatural" they depend on consciousness and accepting differences. As Dr. Carl Jung implied, marriage may be the "royal road" to development through consciousness. The challenge of intimacy in marriage is the unique challenge to develop through differentiating self and other, while trusting one's dependence on the other.

This presentation will show how gender differences can become a barrier to intimacy. Using the Jungian concept of "contrasexual other" (anima and animus) as the meaning of "dream lover," I will discuss the risks and dangers men and women face in the struggle to make their relationships open, honest, intimate, and equal.

Workshop by Polly Young-Eisendrath,
Ph.D., A.C.S.W., and
Edward Epstein, A.C.S.W.

Mid-Life Couples in Dialogue: Wishes and Wariness

Saturday, November 23,
10 A. M. - 4:30 P. M.
The Mountaineers Club,
300 Third Ave. W.
(in Queen Anne near West Thomas)
$50 members; $60 non-members

A recent New York Times article said "conversation is killing marriages." More marriages dissolve because of unsuccessful communication than from any other single factor. In mid-life, especially, couples come to terms with a final developmental challenge: letting go of the wishes of childhood. Wishes for perfection, eternal hope, and everlasting beauty are re-stimulated at a time in life when teenage children are departing and aging parents are bringing us face-to-face with death. Conversation is the necessary avenue for greater intimacy, the kind of intimacy that depends on trust and brings a sense of commitment. Male and female communication styles and needs diverge widely, and this can result in a kind of hopelessness that leads to the dissolution of marriage.

This workshop will present a conceptual framework for understanding relational differences between the genders and their consequences in mid-life. Also, the "dialogical-dyadic" method of couple therapy will be outlined by the originators of the method—the presenters. This is a psychodynamic method, emphasizing the effects of projection and projective identification as communication disruption. The method has been used effectively with couples of all varieties to improve their communication and conflict resolution. Videotaped therapy sessions with mid-life couples will further illustrate the method and the developmental and gender issues of mid-life. (continued next page)

Lecture by John Radecki, M.A.

Individuation's Most Dangerous Servant: The Psychopath

Monday, December 9, 7:30 P. M.
Cornish North, 1501 Tenth Ave. E.
$5 members; $8 non-members

Arising from the split between spirit and matter, the psychopath functions, in projected form, as an agent of destruction, powerful enough to destroy societies, as we see most overtly in Eastern Europe today. When experienced as an inner factor, the destructive power of the psychopath under the right conditions can be brought into service of individual wholeness, ending the split between spirit and matter.

We will discuss the psychopath in outer and inner form and the conditions under which he can be brought into the service of wholeness. Close attention will be given to the Buddhist tale of Milarepa as a paradigm of this process.

About the Speaker: John Radecki holds a master's degree in psychology and has had extensive training in sociodrama. His continued interest in Jungian psychology began when he entered Jungian analysis while in Australia. Radecki lives in Kirkland, where he is in private practice. He was born in England and lived in Australia before coming to the United States in 1979.

President's Message, continued from page 1

Our second significant event is the rental of office space at University Heights Center, 5031 University Way N.E., Seattle 98105. We have rented a small office on the north end of the main floor, Room 5A, where we will house our library and administrative functions (telephone, mail, etc.). As this newsletter goes to press, we are in the process of moving in and setting up! By the time you read this, we will have established a preliminary library schedule, with hours to be posted, staffed by volunteers. If you are interested in becoming one of our library (or other) volunteers, please call or write to the Society and let us know your availability and interest. The current office space is small, just 150 square feet, but we have plans to move into a larger office once the second floor of the building has been approved for occupancy. We will keep you posted, and welcome all of you to come see our new home!

The third event is a "mark your calendar" event for the winter of 1992. We will be bringing back the film series The Way of the Dream February 29 and March 1, 1992. This is an outstandingly beautiful as well as profoundly educational series of filmed interviews conducted by analyst Fraser Boa with Dr. Marie-Louise von Franz. Last presented in Seattle in 1986, this is a two-day event that you do not want to miss. Tell your friends and bring them, too. You won't be disappointed.

We have many other excellent events listed in this newsletter, so enjoy the feast of the coming season. As always, if you have suggestions for speakers, especially if you know of local individuals doing interesting work of a Jungian nature, please write to us with a proposal. Thank you for your continued interest and support.

Sincerely,
Bette R. Joram, president

Call for Submissions

The C.G. Jung Society, Seattle, is seeking submissions for the winter edition of the newsletter. Contributions of relevant essays, poetry, news, and media reviews will be considered for publication. Please send to: P. O. Box 19243, Seattle, WA 98109. Questions? Call David Steinmetz at 776-7774. The deadline for the winter issue is October 2.

Volunteers Needed

Volunteers are needed to help with setting up for lectures or workshops. Those making prior arrangements for this work receive free admission to lectures and half-price admissions to workshops they help with. People interested in helping the Society by publicizing Society events, bookkeeping, or typing correspondence, are also needed. These volunteer activities qualify you for half-price admission to all Society events. For more information, please call Volunteer Coordinator Steve Brundage at 441-1884.

About the Speakers: Dr. Polly Young-Eisendrath, A.C.S.W., is chief psychologist, Jungian analyst, and clinical social worker at Clinical Associates West in Bala Cynwyd. She is senior research scientist at the Institute of Pennsylvania Hospital and a former member of the faculty of the Graduate School of Social Work and Social Research at Bryn Mawr College. She has published four books, including Hags and Heroines: A Feminist Approach to Jungian Psychotherapy with Couples and Female Authority: Empowering Women Through Psychotherapy. She is working on Dream Lovers: Men and Women in Troubled Relationships.

Edward Epstein, A.C.S.W., is administrative director and clinical social worker at Clinical Associates West. He specializes in working with couples and men on gender-related issues and changes in men and masculinity.

Student, Senior, and Reduced-Income Discounts Available

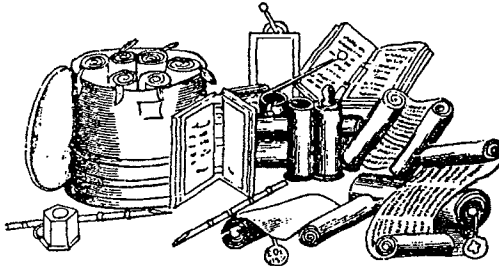

Students and seniors can become Society members for only $15 per year, qualifying for a 20 percent to 30 percent discount on admissions. Membership forms and information will be sent to you if you call 525-3960. The Society is committed to making its educational events available to everyone, despite differences in income.

Society Library Notes

Since it was last situated at Cornish College Administration (previous to its being split into two parts a couple of years ago), the Society Library has grown to over seven hundred titles besides the collection of Jung's works.

Accumulated as it has been in large part from member contributions over the years, the library has a decidedly eclectic flavor, though it is most definitely a "Jungian" collection. An effort is being made (on a careful budget) to fill out the collection with worthwhile new titles and useful reference works.

Your consideration in returning books and will be appreciated—some things have longer). Library materials may now be tape drop established just outside the new building during regular building hours. They may also be returned by mail to tapes that you may have in your possession been missing for over a year (and some even returned by placing them in the book and location in the University Heights Center (M-F, 7 A.M.-10 P.M., Sat, 9 A.M.-5 P.M.). Box 19243, Seattle, 98109.

For information on times when the library itself is open, call the Society's answering machine at 525-3960 and listen to the recorded message—library hours will also be posted at the new location. If you are interested in being involved in some way with the organization of materials in the collection, or in helping to keep the library open at definite times, leave a message after the tone! Following are recent library acquisitions:

Abrams & Zweig, Meeting the Shadow
 Bly, Iron John
 Carlson, In Her Image
 Carus, Psyche: On the Development of the Soul
 Coombs & Holland, Synchronicity

Winter Preview In January

San Francisco Jungian analyst Peter Rutter, M. D., presents a lecture and workshop based on his new book,

*Sex in the Forbidden Zone:
When Men in Power—Therapists, Doctors, Clergy,
Teachers, and Others—Betray Women's Trust.*

February 29-March 1 The Way of the Dream

Film Seminar Weekend

Twenty half-hour films and moderated discussions provide a compelling and extensive overview of the significance of dreams.

Centerpoint I & II Organizational Meeting

Monday, September 23, 7:30 P. M.
University Heights Center, 5031 University Way N. E.

Centerpoint is a personal study program for those who find the psychology of Dr. C. G. Jung compatible with their own thinking and want to join with a small group to pursue their own inner journey. Participants hope to find their own relations to Jungian understanding, fairy tales, myths, and dreams. The groups meet every week or so and listen to and discuss one of 18 taped sessions. The self-paced course can take as little as 18 weeks or as long as nine months. Each person keeps a journal of dreams and other reflections during the course of the program. However, this is not a dream therapy group. The course costs $65; a notebook of transcripts and study materials is provided. Bring your questions and enthusiasm to this organizational meeting. Contact Bunny Brown, 632-4892, for more information.

Statement of Purpose

This newsletter is published three times a year by the C. G. Jung Society, Seattle, a nonprofit educational corporation founded in 1972. The purpose of the Society is to promote public interest in, and understanding of, analytical psychology and the current use of Jungian concepts by contemporary thinkers. It sponsors lectures, workshops, seminars, and study groups, and maintains a library of Jungian materials. Programs are, for the most part, intended for the general public.

The Society's mailing address is:
P. O. Box 19243
Seattle, WA 98109

For more information about the Society, please call (206) 525-3960.

Computer Needed

The Society has an urgent need for a computer to use for accounting, writing correspondence, and other administrative tasks. We'd very much appreciate the donation of any usable IBM-compatible or Mac computer. Such a donation would be tax deductible. To make a donation, please call the Society number, (206) 525-3960 and leave a message. Someone will return your call promptly.

Memories, Records, Reflections

Now that the Society has a room of its own, more storage space will be available, allowing us to archive some of our history. The Society was formed about 20 years ago, and we would like to have records as far back as the beginning. We would appreciate any newsletters, program announcements, flyers, commentaries on membership events, minutes of Board meetings, membership or Board lists, pertinent correspondence, commentaries on the speakers, or information about arranging speaker appearances here. We would love to have personal memories about programs you found significant or helpful to you in a Jungian way.

Perhaps you have some materials that you kept because you knew they would be valuable to the Society, but hesitated to donate because the organization had no permanent, safe place for such things. If so, this is the time to pass them on. You could bring the memorabilia to a Society event, or mail it to P. O. Box 19243, Seattle 98109, or to our new address at Room 5A, University Heights Center, Seattle 98105. You can also call Bunny Brown at 632-4892 to tell about your recollections. Don't worry about remembering specific dates; we will try to match up any notes or materials with our newsletter dates. We would especially like to hear from those who were present during the first years of the Society.

Cornish College North Meeting Location

Directions to Cornish College North: The North building of the Cornish College of the Arts is at 1501 Tenth Avenue East (at Galer), just north of St. Mark's Cathedral. By Car—To park in the lot behind Cornish North, enter the driveway between St. Mark's and Cornish College, then turn right at the far end of the building through the archway. The rear entrance to the building, at the far north end under an arch, will be open and lighted. By Bus—There is a bus shelter next to the drive between Cornish North and St. Mark's and a stop directly across the street from the school, providing easy access from the University District and downtown via routes 7 and 9.
