

C. G. JUNG SOCIETY · SEATTLE

SPRING 2003

NEWSLETTER

The persona is a complicated system of relations between individual consciousness and society, fittingly enough a kind of mask, designed on the one hand to make a definite impression upon others, and, on the other, to conceal the true nature of the individual.

—C.G. Jung, “The Relations between the Ego and the Unconscious”
Collected Works, Vol. 7, Par. 305

Urs H. Mehlin, Ph.D.

Lecture & Workshop: Persona—Aspects of an Underestimated Archetype

Most probably we are not conscious of the influence of the Persona on our everyday life—starting from the first impression we get from somebody or the impression we want to make on people, over the impact of fashion or “life-style” to the growing popularity of plastic surgery.

Also, in our Analytical Psychology we easily tend to neglect the seemingly superficial aspects of life and mankind by focussing only on the depth of the unconscious manifestations.

And yet, as analysts, as teachers, as professionals in any field and even in our private life, we depend socially also on our chosen persona, which tends to become more autonomous, the less we acknowledge its importance.

A few key ideas that will be explored in the lecture and workshop:

- Persona and Mask: Jung’s attitude on the subject
- Beauty in Life, Myth and Fairy-Tale: Ideal and Shadow
- Fashion, Cosmetics and Plastic Surgery: Help and Influence of the Trickster-Archetype
- Body, Skin and Clothing: Hopes, Fears, Taboos and Tattoos
- Seduction by and Seduction of Models
- Persona, Life-Style and Zeitgeist
- The function of the Persona in Child Development: “Is Barbie bad?”
- Caring for or neglecting the Persona: Heath and Sickness, Wellness and Depression.

Lecture & Workshop: Jung and Film—What We Bring to the Movies.

Jungian film studies differs from other psychological approaches to film, especially in the difference between a semiotic or signs approach (Freudian/Lacanian) and the Jungian symbolic approach. Moreover, movies offer an experience analogous to active imagination and aspects of being in a Jungian analysis.

The lecture and workshop will point out how movies and depth psychology arose together at the end of the 19th century—as Pat Berry has described—and how both seemed to be responding to the need for individual experiences newly threatened by the complexity of modern urban life and what Jung called “mass-mindedness.”

The material will be illustrated with movie extracts throughout and include a discussion of Lydia Lennihan’s paper ‘The Alchemy of Pulp Fiction’, examples of ‘Grail journeys’, archetypes and gender in Field of Dreams and American Graffiti. If time allows, we will discuss the use of films in clinical work along the lines that Mary Dougherty writes about in her chapter on Gender and the Movies using, among other films, an extract from The Piano.

The workshop will explore individuation in movies and how men and women figure differently and compensatorily in these narratives. The focus will be on successes and failures in ‘becoming who you are’ as shown in the movies Field of Dreams, Dark City, The Truman Show, and Pleasantville.

We will also look at individuation in movies that, ironically, are made for a “mass market” by looking at the films of Steven Spielberg. And will focus on the development of his male characters and of the theme of masculinity in general over thirty years of films from Duel, Jaws, and Close Encounters of the Third Kind, to E.T., Schindler’s List, and Saving Private Ryan.

The intent of the lecture and workshop is for participants to have a greater awareness for what they can get from movies and importantly, for what they, themselves, are bringing!

Come and share or come and listen. At the meeting we will also elect next year's Board of Directors.

President's Message

Our most recent speaker, Dr. Murray Stein, presented some very thoughtful material on "The Changing God Image." He mentioned that it was originally an address he gave to The Guild for Pastoral Theology in London (founded in 1934 by Carl Jung). They have the address available in pamphlet form for three pounds, plus shipping. We've made preliminary inquiries about getting some copies, and if you'd like one, leave your name in a message at the office so we can judge how many to order.

A number of issues have received the board's attention in the past months. One in particular is the idea of increasing the availability of short courses, of two or three weekly classes, built around popular themes of Jungian work. Lee Roloff's recent introduction to Fairy Tales is an excellent example. Admittedly, few can bring the breadth or depth of knowledge to a topic that Lee can, but I hope we'll be able to develop among ourselves many truly expansive learning experiences.

Another concern of the Board is that without major annual contributions, our operations would not pay for themselves. Accordingly, after reviewing numerous income and expense situations, the board voted to raise both new and renewing annual dues by $5.00 starting next September. This applies to all regular, couples, senior, and student categories. Contributing dues will go up by $10.00, and sustaining by $50.00.

We have also been working to complete the first edition of the membership directory. Debra Tachibana has put in many hours to get it print-ready on disk. We have continued to receive more applications, and are trying our best to finish the data input. Please be patient.

Finally, I'd like to offer encouragement to plan to attend the annual meeting on May 31st. The sharing of readings and poetry at the previous two meetings were certainly enjoyable, and I look forward to another pleasant time.

—John Krausser, President

Statement of Purpose

The C.G. Jung Society, Seattle, a nonprofit educational corporation founded in 1973, publishes this newsletter three times a year. The purpose of the Society is to promote public interest in, and understanding of, analytical psychology and the current use of Jungian concepts by contemporary thinkers. The Society sponsors lectures, workshops, seminars and study groups, and maintains a library of Jungian materials. Programs are, for the most part, intended for the general public.

Library News

We would like to thank Dr. Michael Horne for his recent donation of 37 books to the library. It is very much appreciated. Thanks for thinking of us.

One of the things we do when deciding how to spend our limited library funds is to try to purchase some or all the books or articles that our speakers have written. As you may know, both Murray Stein and Ann Ulanov have written extensively so we are still working on acquiring some of their work.

We now have the following books by Murraray Stein: In Midlife, Jung's Map of the Soul, Transformation, Psyche at Work, Jung's Treatment of Christianity, Practicing Wholeness. We also have several books where he has been an editor: Jungian Analysis, Jung's Challenge to Contemporary Religion, Transference and Countertransference, Liminality and Transitional Phenomena, Gender and Soul in Psychotherapy, Body in Analysis and Dreams in Analysis. We have ordered Jung on Evil, Solar Conscience, Lunar Conscience and Mad Parts of Sane People in Analysis.

By Ann Ulanov we have Wizard's Gate, Female Ancestors of Christ, and The Feminine in Jungian Psychology. We have three books that she co-authored with her late husband, Barry Ulanov: Transforming Sexuality, The Witch and the Clown, and Religion and the Unconscious. We also have one by Barry Ulanov: Jung and the Outside World. We have ordered copies of Finding Space: Winnicott, God and Psychic Reality and The Functioning Transcendent, and Religion and the Spiritual in Carl Jung by Ann Ulanov.

We have Christopher Hauke's book, Jung and the Postmodern and have ordered Jung and Film: Post Jungian Takes on the Moving Image.

We also have Meeting the Shadow which includes an essay "The Usefulness of the Useless" by Gary Toub.

We now have the book drop in our very own door, Room 345, so you can return your borrowed books, tapes and periodicals through the drop anytime that the Good Shepherd Center is open. Videos require a deposit of $25.00 each for borrowing and must be returned in person. We are open before the Friday night lectures at Good Shepherd at 6:30 p.m. so come and see us then.

If you would like to have us look up a reference for you please call and leave a message for Bunny or Linda.

—Bunny Brown, Librarian
